Both houses of the General Assembly recessed Thursday after passing five minor bills, three in the House and two in the Senate. They will reconvene Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, meanwhile, gave initial hearings to two House-approved bills, one providing for limited no-fault divorce and the other making pyramid sales schemes a criminal offense in Ohio.

The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said he plans to begin hearings next week on a bill to ban cheap handguns within Ohio.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, is aimed at the so-called "Saturday Night specials" police contend are most often used in shootings and hold-ups.

No more tapes, documents forthcoming

Confrontation looming between Nixon, Jaworski

WASHINGTON (AP) - With a strongly worded letter to the chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has moved toward a confrontation with President Nixon.

"It is now clear that evidence I deem material to our investigations will not be forthcoming," Jaworski said in a letter Thursday to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss. The White House said the President himself made the decision to end cooperation with the investigations.

Jaworski disclosed that the material the President had refused to supply included the tapes of 27 presidential meetings and telephone calls related to the investigation of the Watergate break-in and cover-up. That number was far higher than had ever been indicated by the prosecutor's office.

Jaworski said that in rejecting his requests, the White House had given no indication "any requested recording is either irrelevant to our inquiries or subject to some particularized privilege."

Eastland was in Mississippi and had no immediate comment on the letter. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a judiciary committee member, said he would request an early meeting of the panel "to consider the ominous implications of Mr. Jaworski's letter."

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told newsmen at Key Biscayne, Fla., that the President had decided Jaworski already had received sufficient material "to allow the grand juries to proceed with their work without further delay.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Jaworski's letter indicates "that the White House has cooperated sufficiently for him to carry out his duties.

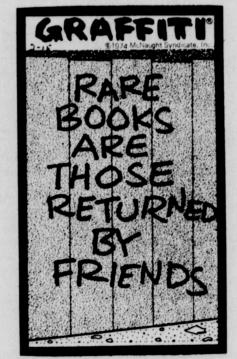

Jaworski's letter said that while he has sufficient evidence for criminal indictments, "the (requested) material is important to a complete and thorough investigation and may contain evidence necessary for any future high as $400 million.

Watergate counsel, James D. St. Clair, was engaged in negotiations with the House Judiciary committee over access to White House files for the committee's impeachment inquiry.

John Doar, chief counsel for the House inquiry, and Albert Jenner, minority counsel for the probe, told newsmen Thursday that St. Clair wanted assurances that confidentiality of White House files would be protected.

In related developments:

-Westinghouse Broadcasting said Thursday night that Jaworski has discovered more apparent gaps in tapes of presidential conversations. Westinghouse quoted what it said were well-informed sources as saying that the apparent gaps appeared during discussions between sensitive President Nixon and aides. Westinghouse said audio experts have been asked to examine the new tapes and give an opinion as to whether they have been tampered with.

-Attorneys for former White House aide Dwight Chapin, who is charged with lying to a grand jury, hoped to convince a federal judge today to disqualify ousted White House counsel

John W. Dean III from testifying against him.

-A Ralph Nader tax reform organization asked a federal judge Thursday to order the Internal Revenue Service to identify any records it has that might show "politically motivated tax treatment" of White House friends and enemies.

Friday, Feb. 15, 1974

-House impeachment investigators said Thursday President Nixon's lawyer is delaying any response to a request for White House documents until assured their confidentiality will be protected.

Kidnap chief escaped convict?

BERKELEY (AP) — Authorities are reported investigating the possibility that an escaped convict is the leader of the terrorist group which kidnaped Patricia Hearst.

The San Francisco Chronicle and television station KQED said Thursday night that the man is Donald David DeFreeze, 30, who escaped from California's Soledad Prison last March 5 while serving a term for robbery, assault and possession of stolen checks.

Both the newspaper and the station said DeFreeze is the "Cinque" of the Hearst kidnap case.

However, the FBI said DeFreeze "is not a prime suspect at this time."

DeFreeze is "one of several people who are known to have used the alias 'Cinque,'" said John Kelley, assistant in charge of the San Francisco FBI office. Cinque was the name of a leader of a slave ship revolt in the 19th cen-

The girl's father is Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

The Chronicle said the black man named in its copyright story had astonished local longtime protest groups by offering a "contract" to kill Oakland's black school superintendent, Dr. Marcus Foster. They refused, the story said. Foster was killed in a barrage of cyanide-filled bullets last November.

Two white men were arrested and charged with the killings and are now being held at San Quentin Prison.

The Chronicle and KQED reports came after a day that saw a transcontinental clash between U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and the FBI's position in San Francisco over basic strategy in the case. At one point, Hearst called the nation's top prosecutor "damn near irresponsible." Saxbe shortly backed off from his re-

Saxbe had said in a Washington news conference that authorities would be derelict if they learned where the coed was being held and didn't attempt to rescue her.

Saxbe said later, "I wholeheartedly subscribe to procedures being pursued by the FBI on its investigative endeavors in this most delicate case." In Wichita, Kan., Thursday, FBI

Service stations start closing as protest move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Angered by federal fines for catering to regular customers and a federal price freeze which they say cuts profits, some service station operators have closed their stations in several states and threatened shutdowns in

The situation was most serious in the metropolitan Norfolk, Va., area, where an estimated 20 service stations out of 300-400 opened today at the start of what some dealers said would be a four-day strike.

Hundreds of commuters lined up at the few open stations and still others waited in vain at pumps that remained closed. The area has a population of nearly one million persons.

Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin was urged to declare the area to be in "a state of emergency" as city officials in Virginia Beach met to discuss the situation. Bill Grimes, speaking for the Chesapeake Chamber of Commerce, said federal and state officials "don't know how serious this is. We've got a genuine emergency.'

In Waterbury, Conn., where dealers closed down 54 stations Wednesday and Thursday, stations reopened to long lines of customers.

Protests there and in other states showed strong opposition to a ban on special sales to regular customers and to the federal price freeze which operators claim is strangling profits.

Julie Eisenhower recovers from ovarian cyst surgery

 ${\bf INDIANAPOLIS~(AP)-Julie~Nixon}$ Eisenhower was reported in satisfactory condition today and on the road to recovery from emergency major surgery performed to halt internal bleeding from an ovarian cyst.

President Nixon's 25-year-old daughter was in surgery 44 minutes Thursday night at the Indiana University Medical Center where two of the state's leading gynecologists removed a benign cyst.

Her mother and her husband, David Eisenhower, had rushed by separate military jet planes to be at her side shortly after the operation.

Afterward, a hospital spokesman read a statement saying Mrs. Eisenhower was experiencing some postoperative discomfort and pain, but was considered in satisfactory condition. Then he added, "She is doing very, very well.'

Mrs. Eisenhower had come to Indianapolis for an editorial meeting of the Saturday Evening Post, where she is a $10,000-a-year assistant editor.

Dr. Cory SerVaas, wife of Curtis Publishing Co. board chairman Beurt SerVaas, said Mrs. Eisenhower became ill during the meeting and was taken to their home in the northwest Indianapolis suburbs.

Crude oil allocation plan hits hangup

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Now even the Federal Energy office wants to scrap most of the federal crude oil allocation plan. But it has to get Congress to do it.

The FEO wants major revisions in the plan that will, in effect, get rid of a requirement that all refineries produce at 76 per cent of capacity. As it stands now, those with more than 76 per cent must sell their excess crude oil to will wait until next week before officially asking Congress to change the law, the law will technically have to be enforced starting Saturday.

The plan has made Gulf Oil so angry that it went to court Thursday to get a court order halt the program before it can take effect.

The plan requires companies with large crude supplies to share them with firms with smaller supplies. The allocation law was designed to solve two major problems brought on by the Arab oil embargo: -Help even out the distribution of oil products. Since some companies had more crude than others, an even distribution of fuel products was made more difficult. -Aid those independent refiners who were so short of crude they were en-required to sell off their excess crude to 83 others. Some of the firms getting this crude are among the largest in the country, including Texaco, Standard of Ohio and Atlantic Richfield. Deputy FEO administrator John C.

Sawhill said Thursday that the FEO would seek a change in the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act under which the crude allocation plan falls. He said it should be changed to ensure supplies to the small independent refiners, but not to force major companies to transfer supplies among themselves. Thus the majors would only have to sell to small independents whose crude supplies have been cut off by the Arab oil embargo and not to major competitors.

The 76 per cent across-the-board requirement would go out the window if such legislation were passed.

Death claims Nick Vrettos

Nick A. Vrettos, 72, of 401 E. Temple St., retired owner and operator of The Goody Shoppe, 133 N. Main St., died at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient since Monday.

Mr. Vrettos, who moved to America from Greece in 1914, retired as owner of The Goody Shoppe March 27, 1971, after 44 years in the business.

Upon arriving in America, Mr. Vrettos worked in steel mills and then carried water for a railroad gang in Minneapolis, Minn., for nearly seven years before moving to Moline, Ill., where he was promoted to a job in the railyard roundhouse. He was transferred to the Massillon railyards and was employed there until moving to Washington C.H. in 1926.

At first, he was in a partnership with the late Nick Rambos in the restaurant operation but took over complete ownership in 1934.

He married the former Lula Pappas. of Columbus, who survives, on May 12, 1929, and they worked in the restaurant together until retiring in 1971. Mr. Vrettos was a member of the Greek Orthodox Church, Columbus.

Surviving besides his wife are a daughter, Mrs. James (Mary) Vasos, of Columbus; two sons, Thomas, 517 E. Market St., and Michael, 539 Frank St., four grandchildren and a brother and two sisters who live in Greece.

Funeral services are being arranged by the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Israel hopeful of Egypt's intent

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Special Correspondent

Israel these days seems increasingly hopeful that her main military foe, Egypt, is in earnest about a settlement and that even the Syrians are ready for disengagement of forces.

But she worries that other dangers to peace and stability lie around the fringes of the Middle East.

Competent sources close to the situation note that Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, who years ago was considered a fanatical foe of Israel, sounds more and more these days like a genuine voice of moderation. They say this transformation is due to Sadat's hopes of getting the Egyptian economy on the rails.

They suggest Syria has compelling practical reasons to accept disengagement and is under strong Egyptian and perhaps even Soviet pressure to do so. She has nothing to lose by it, having given up territory in the war. Disengagement would simply mean an Israeli pullback to Golan Heights positions held before the October war.

The sources say they think the Syrian regime will accept when and if it feels it has overcome internal opposition to the

Service stations

3.400 of the state's 20,000 service station operators, said they would take a "vacation" March 22 unless they are granted a gasoline price increase.

The 300-member Southern California Retailers Association said it was planning a shutdown of service stations for Feb. 24.

About 2,000 service station dealers in Washington and Oregon issued an ultimatum to the federal government saying they would pump their tanks dry if their demands were not met by midnight Monday.

Spokesmen for the Evergreen Service Station Association of Washington and the Oregon Dealers Association said the demands included more police protection, a minimum increase of five per cent in gasoline allocations and authority to raise prices.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon, invoking the Emergency Petroleum Act of 1973, has directed service stations to treat all customers alike or be fined $5,000.

Max Victor, executive director of the New York State Association of Service Stations, said the federal order amounted to "telling dealers to forget about good will and, in many cases, to forget a clientele he's worked for years to build up."

In Connecticut, Gov. Thomas J Meskill has asked the state's attorney general to seek a federal court ruling on whether the Simon action is legal.

Meskill said he would not enforce the ban in his state and supported gasoline retailers who closed down 54 stations in Waterbury Wednesday and Thursday.

A 1,300-member retailers association on Long Island, N.Y., said it is gathering support for a march on Washington to protest the gasoline shortage in the area.

The stability of the whole Middle East can be upset by a current phenomenon that worries many besides the Israelis. That is the wholesale swapping of modern arms for oil. Prime rate coming down across U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) - Commercial prime lending rate is going down after last year's controversial gains, and many analysts contend the severity of the nation's economic problems will determine how far it

The prime rate, the base lending fee on loans to top business customers. isn't directly tied to consumer and small business loans. But it frequently is a guide to trends in the rates charged on such loans and interest charges in

Money analysts and economists say the prime's decline in 1974 is very much tied to the state of the economy, just as its rise to an all-time high of 10 per cent was linked to the economy in 1973.

Bankers Trust Co., the nation's eighth largest commercial bank, announced Thursday it was dropping its prime rate to 9 per cent from 91/4 per cent. The smaller First National Bank in St. Louis and Manufacturers Bank in Los Angeles did the same, as did Cleveland Trust Co. last week. The lower rate was expected to become industrywide.

Money analysts add that there is little doubt that there will be more drops shortly.

In the long run, Lionel D. Edie, the research arm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, predicts the rate before moving up again will hit a low of 61/2 per cent in September or sooner close to the 6 per cent level at the beginning of 1973.

The research firm, which contends the nation already is into its third month of a recession, says slowed business activity is lowering demand for loans. This, it says, makes the supply of loan funds more available and pushes down the cost of borrowing.

The oldest snake ever recorded was a female anaconda which lived for 21 years in Switzerland.

Nixon cancels family dinner

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) -Canceling a planned Valentine's Day dinner for family and friends, President Nixon waited alone at his bayside home here today for medical reports on daughter Julie Eisenhower, recuperating from surgery in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Nixon flew from Florida to the Indiana capital aboard a small Air Force jet Thursday afternoon after learning her 25-year-old daughter faced emergency surgery to stem internal bleeding caused by an ovarian cyst.

The President had planned a Thursday night dinner at a Key Biscayne restaurant for the first lady, daughter Tricia Cox, friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo and top aides who flew here with him Wednesday for a weekend stay

Nixon flew to the South on what was billed as "a business trip" to include two public speeches, his first outside Washington since last November.

The President's first speech came Thursday in nearby Miami as he helped dedicate an automated health care center at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. He also was scheduled to speak Monday at an Honor America Day rally in Huntsville, Ala., sharing the platform with Gov. George C. Wallace.

Nixon drew a mixed reception at the hospital ceremony. Invited guests cheered him lustily and waved handlettered "We Love You" and "Hang In There" messages written on the backs of their dedication programs. Further away, behind three rows of rope barricades, vocal critics booed and chanted "impeachment now."

The President, ignoring the dissidents, plugged his national health insurance proposal while saying a rival plan, sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., would cost $80 billion and damage the quality of health

While Nixon estimated his plan would add $5.9 billion a year to federal spending, proponents of the Kennedy measure contend the total bill for either plan — including contributions by workers and their employers — would be about the same.

Idling your gas away

Professional test drivers speak highly of the feather touch as a way of saving gasoline. What they mean is that going easy on the accelerator, while it may not move you as fast, will get you from one point to another with less fuel consumed.

This involves a lot of things avoiding jackrabbit starts and snappy passing of the car ahead, easing off in anticipation of stops, timing arrival at traffic lights, and

A related gas-saving trick is now being touted by the Consumers Union. Its tests show that significant amounts of fuel can be conserved by shutting off the engine if you're going to stay put more than a minute. Idling burns gas.

Postal rates are set in the dark

Plans for forming a federal company to exploit any oil found on public lands are being kicked around in Washington. The idea, set forth by Lee White, a former Federal Power Commission chairman, is that federal drilling and pumping, mainly on offshore sites, would provide a salutary "yard-stick" operation, even as the Tennessee Valley Authority was supposed to offer a restraining check on the pricing policies of the privately owned utilities.

The "yardstick" theory was always phony: as Wendell Willkie tried to tell TVA boss David Lilienthal in the Thirties, government-owned companies have no tax problems, no great difficulties about commanding new capital, and can never go broke unless foreign invaders take over the country.

Their inefficiencies are never exposed to the corrective influence of market forces. So how can a federally owned company be used to "measure" anything?

We could learn if we only would. Almost to the day that I read about the proposed federal oil "yardstick" in an ecstatic column by a still wide-eyed survivor of the New Deal epoch, I met a man named John L. Ryan, Mr. Ryan, a citizen of Indianapolis, served for 34 months as a charter member of the United States Postal Rate Commission.

During the last three months of his incumbency he was the commission chairman. Before getting into his postal-rate work he was, for 20 months, chairman of the Indiana Public Service Commission. Surely, with such a background, Mr. Ryan might be expected to know something about setting public rates.

HIS CONCLUSION about himself and his colleagues, however, is most disillusioning. The Post Office is part monopoly, part competitive, and there is no way of knowing how much to take away from the monopoly service to support the competitive end. The Postal Service commissioners may be entirely honest, but they "cannot even apply much independent judgment as to what individual rates should be." Such is Mr. Ryan's despairing com-

Private competition with the Post Office is permitted by law when it comes to distributing third - and fourthclass mail. A small package shipper can choose between the government Postal Service, the private United Parcel Service, and a variety of regional carriers.

it produces a distortion in the work of the public body. Faced with direct small package competition, the Postal Service has put special emphasis on improving its parcel shipment. It has also worked to improve the distribution of bulk mail, another class of service in which competition exists. But the distribution of first-class mail has been the "incentiveless service."

DOES ANYONE know how much the effort to meet competition in small parcels and in bulk mail has taken away from the distribution of firstclass letters, which is the government's monoply privilege? Mr. Ryan can give no definite answer. The intermingling of monopoly and competition makes a 'market" judgment impossible.

Says Mr. Ryan, "Any income Marine and the second s

This is all to the good, but inevitably first class." The taxpayer can be called upon to make up for the shortfall, or first-class rates can be raised to keep the whole operation in the black. But nobody will ever know what the rates would have been if there had been competition across the board.

Letter carrying is not a natural monopoly; anyone could enter the business if the law would only allow it. Mr. Ryan, after his 34 months of wrestling with the problem of a mixed business that has been putting "an increasingly larger burden on the firstclass mailers," concludes that open competition in carrying any and all mail, first class as well as parcels and bulk, is the only thing that will really serve the customer.

With free competition, says Mr. Ryan, "mail service to the citizens will dramatically improve and in a few requirement that cannot be produced more years there will be startling new . . by competitive services falls on technology in the way mail is handled."

I took him at his word. That is why, after 30 years at the typewriter, I can number the thrones I have toppled on one hand — and still have five fingers left over. But no matter how humble his nature, a columnist feels he has to show the world he is someone to be reckoned with — that the power of the press is a very real thing.

So as my first adventure into controversy, several years ago I came out with a bitter denunciation against poison snakes as a menace to the American way of life. I thought that was safe enough.

However, when I later made a tabulation of the mail that came in, I found, much to my disgust, that 212 pported me and 475 came out in favor of poison snakes - some even castigating me and asking why I didn't pick on something my size.

Since then, I've been as meek as a columnist can be. My pen has been dipped in lamb fat.

But meekness is not enough. You can get in trouble about anything. Even buttermilk

Dear ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His new-found devotion

shouldn't surprise wife

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, when my husband was 58 he had an affair with his secretary. It was no secret, and all the tongues in this little town were wagging a mile a minute.

Once I found a motel key in his coat pocket, and he had the gall to tell me that he got tired driving so he checked into this motel to take a nap. (Three miles from home!)

Last year he had an operation which left him practically impotent, and since then I couldn't ask for a more devoted husband. He phones me if he knows he's going to be half an hour late. He buys me presents, sends me flowers. and even takes me on business trips, which he never did before. Of course I'm enjoying all this, but why in your opinion has my husband suddenly turned over a new leaf?

DEAR ABBY: For years I have cherished the friendship of a very fine woman. She's a lady of character, intelligence and charm. She is very devout in her religion, as I am in mine, though our religions differ Lately whenever we are together she tries to convert me to her religion. I have told her emphatically and repeatedly that her efforts to convert me are futile, but she is persistent.

How can I convince her that she is wasting her time and trying my patience? I con't want to end our other wise pleasant friendship of many vears. SPIRITUALLY SATISFIED

DEAR SATISFIED: Send her this quote: "I never told my own religion, nor scrutinized that of another. I never attempted to make a convert, nor wished to change another's creed. I have ever judged of the religion of others, and by this test, my dear Madame, I have been satisfied yours must be an excellent one to have virtue and correctness. For it is in our lives and not from our words that our religion must be read."

The above is a portion of a letter written by Thomas Jefferson to Mrs. H. Harrison Smith on Aug. 6, 1816.

If your cherished friend is as intelligent and virtuous as you say she is, she will get the message and act accordingly. DEAR ABBY: My friend's mother died, and all the funeral arrangements were left to my friend, so she asked me to go with her for moral support. Her mother had requested cremation. We went to the mortuary and a man took us to a room where my friend picked out a casket. They were exquisitely finished, and expensive, so I asked the (dumb?) question, "What happens to that beautiful expensive casket after the body is cremated?

The man gestured as though he was putting a loaf of bread in an oven, and said: "The whole thing goes in. It's against the law to reuse the casket.' My husband works for a utility company, and one of his coworkers was called in for a repair job where cremations take place, and he told my husband that the casket was NOT burned. It was returned, and rented

What can be done to protect grieving survivors from being swindled out of thousands of dollars? In their sorrow and befuddled state they never ask any questions.

D.E.P. IN MILL VALLEY DEAR D.E.P.: Your husband's coworker is mistaken. A casket is never "reused" or rented out. It's against the law.

New Sunday school program

The Commission on Education and the Sunday school teachers of the New Holland United Methodist Church met recently and have decided to add several special programs, beginning on Sunday, March 3.

Under the direction of Mrs. Dean Tarbill, Sunday school superintendent, devotions for all classes will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary, prior to the departure to the classrooms at 9:45.

To encourage participation, an attendance contest will also start on March 3, with awards given every 3 months. A banquet is planned at the end of the 52 weeks for those who have attended every Sunday for the Sunday school. If another church was attended a written certificate will be accepted, but no absences because of illness will

It was pointed out that the Sunday School needs a new class for young people who are out of high school. All those who are interested should meet on Sunday, Feb. 17, at 9:45 a.m. in the sanctuary. This class will include single guys and gals, young marrieds and returning college students.

On the first Sunday of each month, a Sunday school class and its teacher will be honored during the church service. The Junior High Class will be the March "Class of the Month" and will sit together in the sanctuary.

A Mission Study for children in grades 1-4 will start on Feb. 17. They will be studying the Jewish faith, and a trip to a Columbus Synagogue is planned for the entire church congregation.

In some Protestant denominations, the continued tide of new ministers is so strong, says the Rev. Roddey Reid Jr., a specialist on the matter, that there is "a significant number of unemployed clergy for the first time in history."

Washington C. H. (O.) Record-Herald - Page 5

The Rev. Mr. Reid, of New York City, head of the clergy deployment office of the Episcoal Church in which the surplus has been particularly heavy, says there is a steadily increasing number of clergy "in proportion to the number of parishes." "It's something new in the history of the Church in America," he adds.

However, a reverse condition is evident in Roman Catholicism in which the number of seminarians continues to shrink. It's a "critical problem," says the Rev. Adrian Fuerst, of the Church's Center for Applied Research in the Apostolate, of Washington, D.C. He blames the downturn on a lack of active recruitment efforts by bishops and priests - a job that some of them lately have begun beefing up with advertising campaigns and other methods in face of portents of shor-Over-all, enrollment of the nation's Protestant and Catholic theological recent years - while the flow of students into the ministry generally has continued unabated or increased. The view has become widespread in Protestantism that "there already are too many clergy," says the Rev. Mr. Taylor but he adds that the cases of excess are spotty, varying by denomination and region.

Actually, the sizable increase in over-all seminary enrollment this term did not occur among students preparing for ordination, the Rev. Mr. Taylor says, but was nearly all in postministerial students seeking doctorates.

For the opening, she read a Valentine poem and conducted the business session. An honorary membership was presented to Miss Maude Routson, a 43year member.

Members answered roll call by naming an Irving Berlin melody. Mrs. Janes presented the program when she reviewed the book, "Irving Berlin, Master Composer of Twentieth Century Songs," by Barbara Salsini.

Mrs. Janes told the group that the book is not a story of one man, but of an entire epoch. His thousand songs mirror the social history of the country for almost three quarters of a century.

The writer said he discovered the root needs and sentiments of all American lives and magically caught them in music. Berlin was born in Russia but chose to live in America, and compiled a book of America's music so huge that it would fill a library all by itself.

This collection included "God Bless America" the most stirring of all patriotic songs, and sometimes called our unofficial national anthem. It also includes "Blue Skies" an affirmation of all good things in life, "There is No Business Like Show Business" the theme song of the entertainment industry, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" another song of the jazz age.

Mrs. Janes played all of these popular numbers on the stereo and closed her review by saying critics called Berlin a 'genius.

During the social hour, the members were seated at a long table decorated with a Valentine decor and a centerpiece of carnations and red candles. A dessert was served.

Red and white theme prevails at class party

South Side Church of Christ was honored at a Fellowship Supper Thursday evening. Fellowship Hall was beautifully decorated with red and white hearts. A large three-foot heart was on the platform and the words "Faith, Loyalty and Love" made from large black individual letters interspersed with small hearts, which formed the background for the beautiful setting. Red streamers were suspended from the ceiling to each corner and hearts hung from each light. White lace-like placemats over pink were used on the banquet tables and original heart centerpieces graced each table, flanked on each side with a large pink floating candle. A large heart was placed in the foyer with pictures of many of the members of the honored class.

Miss Carol Everhart and her sister Christi gave each person a white heart edged with red for name tags and the greeters were Tom Everhart and Melvin Milstead.

Kevin Pfiefer gave the Invocation and served as Master of Ceremonies for the evening. Following the bountiful meal, a trio comprised of Jana Bolender, Marilyn Creamer and Gloria Bolender sang, "Over the Sunset Mountains." A contest was conducted. Small packets of letters were given out and the group was given five minutes to form five words of love. Several were successful and candy was given as

A Spring Style Review was enthusiastically received. Jeff Smithson was the commentator. The girls modeling their original creations were: Linda Jordan, Robyn Leslie, Jana Bolender, Gloria Bolender, Linda Hollingsworth, and Marilyn Creamer. Judges for the comedy style review were volunteers from each adult class. Pearl Varney, Charles Starkey, Dr. John Jordan, Paul Pettit and Tom Everhart served as judges. They unanimously chose Miss Gloria Bolender for showing the most original and challenging outfit. She was given a large happy face sucker for her prize.

NEW YORK (AP) — Let us establish right off the bat that CBS' new "Apple's Way" series on Sundays is corn. It's literate, middle-class, fairly sophisticated and well-acted, but it's still show. The series is created by Earl Hamner, author of "The Waltons."

Last Sunday's debut show, concerning George Apple's fight to save an old oak tree, wasn't too swift. It had some nice moments, but some unusually hokey ones, particularly the en-

Still, the basic series idea seems sound, even if it appears to be "The Waltons" with fewer kids and far more money in a modern, small town atmosphere totally isolated from such major issues as Watergate, no gas, unemployment, pollution and ring-around-the collar. This is an appealing setting and nuts to reality, I'll buy it. Particularly if future scripts live up to the quality of this Sunday's effort. It's way, way better than the first offering.

It's a straightforward yarn about Apple's involvement with a 16-year-old former high school athlete crippled for life in an auto accident in which his father was at the wheel. The guiltridden, sports-crazy father refuses to believe the damage is permanent.

The la's main interest is music and his guitar. Old Dad considers this a "hobby" and a nuisance in the way of physical therapy he thinks will get his son out of a wheelchair someday.

Apple gets in the act when the boy, offered a chance to play lead guitar in a high school group, learns the architect is a fair guitarist himself. He asks for and gets some brush-up lessons.

I don't want to spoil the ending, but suffice it to say the musical opposition — Old Dad — finally sees the light in a closing concert scene that could have been awful but was handled beautifully.

COPE ends Cincy meet

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - The AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) was to finish a twoday regional session here today after announcing as its aim the assembling of a "veto-proof Congress," dominated by Democrats.

The labor group heard from a lineup of candidates it has endorsed for 1974, including U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a Democratic presidential hopeful.

Jackson told the labor leader "to phase out the Republicans" in 1974. He said Americans "have had a bellyful" of the Nixon Administration.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., accused the Nixon Administration of "a conspiratorial relationship" with the nation's major oil companies.

He predicted the economy "is going to go into reverse" unless quickly remedied.

Aronoff steals Fry's doughnuts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - It's affecting his normally good sense of dollars to doughnuts things will get humor. mixed up in an election year.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-75 Springfield, candidate for the GOP nomination for governor, and Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, seeking the Republican nomination for Attorney General, scheduled news conferences in Cincinnati in the same hotel 30 minutes apart.

Bus boys took Fry's coffee and doughnuts to Aronoff's news conference by mistake and there wasn't time to get the mixup straightened out.

"We enjoyed them," said Aronoff, 'but I'll have to apologize to Charlie for absconding with his coffee and doughnuts.

Strike may bring end to plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -Columbus Coated Fabrics Co. official said Thursday it was possible the strike-bound plant might cease operations.

'Because of present union demands, there is a serious possibility that the operation in Columbus may never reopen," said Lionel Nosenchuck, company advertising director.

The plant, closed for awhile by a walkout last year when a mysterious nerve disease was discovered among several employes, has been shut down since Sunday by a strike by Textile Workers of America Local 487.

Nosenchuck's comments followed a letter written by CCF President Edward L. Mahoney to all employes saying the company was nearing the point where it will feel it is "hopeless" to try to continue operations under current conditions.

Nosenchuck said if the plant is closed, "It would be because of the union demands, not because this is not a viable business outside of that."

Meanwhile, a National Labor Relations Board spokesman in Washington said the closing threat could be a violation of the Taft-Hartley

Thomas Healy said an employer "can't make a threat of unemployment because of your union activity.'

Reds sink fishing boat

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - North Korea captured a South Korean fishing boat and sank a second one today in an act of "grave, deliberate armed provocation," the South Korean government charged.

The Defense Ministry said North Korean gunboats opened fire on the two vessels - both reportedly unarmed and each carrying a crew of 12 - in a disputed part of the Yellow Sea.

It was the first shooting incident reported between the North and South since they issued a joint communique on July 4, 1972, pledging to refrain from hostile action.

Rescuers reported that all 12 crew members aboard the sunken craft, the Suwon No. 21, were missing. The Defense Ministry said it did not know if there were any casualties on the other boat, the Suwon No. 33.

Chang Key-young, of the joint North-South coordinating committee, sent a formal protest to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang demanding that the 12 crew members aboard the captured ship be returned immediately. He said the boats were engaged in peaceful fishing operations on open seas when attacked.

Energy concern 3 to 5 years late, expert says

1970, The Associated Press reported that government officials and industry experts were forecasting a worsening energy shortage. Now the crisis has come, and in new interviews, four of these men discuss the current situation and how they think it could have been

By JEAN HELLER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - An energy expert who once was a key administration adviser says the current energy crisis could have been averted if government and the public had cared enough about it three to five years ago

S. David Freeman, former director of President Nixon's energy policy staff, said Nixon is misleading the nation by refusing to institute gas rationing, thereby leading the public to believe the energy pinch isn't really

"The President is still catering to a notion that somehow rationing is a national crime, leading people to believe that we should try to avoid it at all costs," Freeman said in an interview. "There's a shortage - a real shortage - and I don't know why he won't face the cold, hard facts."

Ford Foundation's Energy Policy

Project, is one of a group of govern-ment, industry and business officials who predicted in interviews more than three years ago that the nation was headed for an energy crisis.

In new interviews, four of them discussed the intervening years and how they have coped with the crisis they foresaw.

Braintree, Mass., a suburban Boston community of more than 40,000, is one of the hardest hit areas in the nation in terms of fuel supply and prices. In less than four years, the price of the fuel oil it takes to run the city's electrical system has risen 1,000 per cent.

"We're going to make it through this winter because we now have a threemonth supply of fuel oil on hand," said Alban G. Spurrell, manager of the Braintree Electric Light Department.

"But nobody knows what the future holds," he added. "We've been cut off by our supplier as of the end of that three-month supply. God knows what we'll do then.

On July 31, 1970, Spurrell's department was paying $1.79 a barrel for its fuel oil. His latest supply cost him $17.80 per barrel. He has no choice but to pass on the increased costs to his customers whose bills, Spurrell says, have at least doubled since 1970.

"Looking back on it," he said, "there doesn't seem any reason the oil companies couldn't have avoided this. They knew years ago what was coming and any new mines opened. It takes four It should be noted, however, to knew years ago what was coming and they could have increased their production in preparation for it.

'We blame the oil companies and the federal government because the federal government knew, too. If the politicians had done five years ago what they're doing now - the allocation, the education, the speed limit reductions, the requests that people turn down their thermostats - maybe people wouldn't have cooperated as much as they are now, but even a little cooperation could have helped.'

Things aren't much brighter for the utilities that use coal

The Tennessee Valley Authority is the nation's largest electric utility in generating capacity and, as such, burns more than 40 million tons of coal each year. James Watson, the TVA power manager, said he had a 75-day supply on hand as of mid-February, but had no idea where future supplies would come from.

'The coal supply problem in the United States is mounting pretty fast," Watson said. "The problem is simple. We're using more than we're mining. And a lot of coal which might be mined is being left in the ground because its sulphur content makes it too dirty to burn under the air pollution laws.

"The President has made some statements about relaxing the laws for years to get a reasonable size underground mine into production. It also takes about $30 million to $40 million."

Freeman, a former member of the administration, agrees with the critics who blame the government, at least in part, for not averting the crisis.

As early as 1971, Freeman said, he noted in writing the President's energy message that the nation didn't have any reserve capacity to produce oil, or any reserve storage capacity.

"I tried to get somebody interested in government investment in stockpiling oil, in beefing up the naval reserves, but I couldn't get anyone to seriously consider it. If we had our naval petroleum reserves ready to produce a million or two million barrels a day, this interruption in imports from the Persian Gulf wouldn't be having any appreciable impact," Freeman said.

Freeman said there should have been action years ago to improve mass transportation, improve the insulation of private homes and develop the technology to burn coal cleanly

'We've piddled around with the job of burning coal cleanly since 1967 and never made an all-out effort," he said. How long will the crisis last?

"This situation will get gradually worse, week by week, month by month,

Compilations by the First National City Bank suggest that by recent standards 14 per cent might be a bit high, having been achieved on average only twice since 1960 by the leading manufacturers.

The petroleum producing and refining industry has, in fact, never achieved an average 14 per cent return on net worth since 1955, although it did reach a whopping 22.1 per cent average

The year 1973 could, of course, prove to be an exception, although the figures won't be complete for several weeks. For 1972 the rate of return for leading manufacturers was 10.5 per cent.

With just one scant week remaining in regular season cage action - with the exception of Wilmington who finished Feb. 22 - Hillsboro's Kevin Bailey maintains a comfortable lead in overall scoring statistics. The fiery guard has amassed a blistering 338 points through 17 games for a nifty 19.9 point per game average.

Closet competitor to Bailey in number of points scored is Miami Trace's Dave Persinger. The dominating center has totaled 286 points through 17 outings for a 16.8 average. In terms of percentages Dave Joslin-Madison Plains' top point maker - ranks second to Bailey with a neat 16.9 average after 16 games. Fourth place goes to Washington C.H.'s "super soph" Doug Phillips with a 15.9 mean and fifth position belongs to Wilmington's Randy Reeder.

Madison Plains

You're Covered,

by Sports Editor Dennis Stapleton

After last weekends games the stage was set for the showdown everyone had expected all season. Madison Plains found remarkably accuracy - around 80 per cent at one time - to blast Greenfield 83-57, Hillsboro was nugged by Paint Valley on Friday 71-70 and cleaned by Circleville on Saturday 67-58, Miami Trace was white-washed by Circleville 58-52 and Washington C.H. found unknown fire power in Craig Shaffer to rip Wilmington 101-59.

The action left Washington C.H. in command of the SCOL with Miami Trace nesting in the second seat desperately needing a win over the Lions Tuesday to tie the league.

Finally the night came when the two top teams would meet to decide who was the best in the SCOL. There were predictions that Washington C.H. would run away with the game. That the speed and overall height advantage would be too much for the Panthers. Yet, other people felt that Miami Trace would win but by a small margin in a low scoring game. Some even felt that the old hex of Washington C.H. always chokes against Miami Trace would

THERE WERE many other beliefs also but Washington C.H. ended all predictions by defeating Miami Trace 74-67. The Lions led practically the whole game again finding Craig Shaffer the big gun. After 15 games of being the playmaker an assist man Shaffer found the scoring touch. His 34 points against Wilmington set a personal high for the spitfire guard. But not resting on his laurals Shaffer's deadly touch was again felt as he accounted for 26 points against Miami Trace. The Panthers boxed Shaffer up with man-to-man coverage and he struck for points. Miami Trace tried zone and Shaffer shot over the defense. Nothing was to be done to stop the fiery little guard.

Doug Phillips - "Super Soph" for the Lions - banged in his average of 16 points. In just two players the Lions had amassed over half of their points. Everyone else was held to within parts of the game. Persinger was left to contend with Doug Boswell - a good leaper but no match for Persinger's heighth or size. Wallace ended the game with nine points and 10 rebounds. Boswell escaped with four points and a handful of lose shots.

Miami Trace on the other hand shinned at spots and sputtered at others. Senior center Dave Persinger played inspired basketball sinking 22 points and grabbing 16 rebounds. The matchup everyone had been talking about - Persinger against Jeff Wallace wasn't to be. Wallace received early foul problems and sat on the bench

Dave Steinhauser played up to his potential collecting 15 points and numerous rebounds. Again two players accounting for more than half the teams total points. Jeff King reached his average of 14 points but had chances of getting more. Randy Reiber produced 10 points - almost three points below his average. Steve Mowery could only account for two points - those coming with less than four minutes remaining in the game. Phil Skinner managed only two points in limited action and Jay Mossbarger collected two in the fourth quarter.

FOUR OF the five Miami Trace starters accounted for 61 of the 67 points scored. The remaining four players that saw action could muster only six points between them. Herein lies Washington C.H.'s

Following Shaffer's 26 points and Phillips' 16 counters were the following. Wallace received nine, Kenny Knisley collected eight, - below both their averages - Boswell accounted for four, Chuck Byrd garnered seven and Alan Coppock sank four. The two extra players Washington C.H. utilized accounted for eight points and counting the lowest starter you have three men managing 15 points. Miami Traces three substitutes plus the lowest starter produced only six points - thus the difference in the game.

With Washington C.H. wrapping up the league title the games this weekend prove no more than possible warmups for post season tournament play. The Lions travel to Hillsboro to end the season for both teams. Also both teams are in the same tournament along with Greenfield and could possibly race each other again. Madison Plains visits Miami Trace - also the last game for the Panthers with Madison Plains finishing the season up Saturday against Westfall. Wilmington and Greenfield duel at Washington high school completing the season for the Tigers with Wilmington ending up next Friday against Lebanon. Circleville takes a break Friday but completes the 1973-74 season Saturday against state ranked and county rival Teays Valley.

Daytona 500 field ready

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) -Add "reformed dropouts" Cale Yarborough and Bobby Isaac to milliondollar winners David Pearson and Richard Petty and you have the favorites for Sunday's richest stock car race of all time, the Daytona 500.

Yarborough and Isaac won a pair of 1121/2-mile qualifying races Thursday and will start the $275,000 main event at Daytona International Speedway in the second row.

Pearson won the pole with a 185.017 miles an hour speed in one-lap runs last Sunday and Petty was second best with 183.176. This earned them the front row in the Daytona, shortened to 450 miles this year as a bow to the energy crisis.

Yarborough, who spent two seasons in U.S. Auto Club championship cars with mediocre success, said "I have a year of stock car racing under my belt again and I feel as good as I ever have about the Daytona 500."

He won it in 1968. Recalling this, Yarborough said "they've moved Victory Lane since than and I had trouble finding it, but I know where it is

MT girls win twice

The Miami Trace varsity and reserve girls defeated Unioto Thursday evening 45-43 and 34-17 respectively.

The varsity started out slow but the game was tied at the half 23-23. Miami Trace opened up a seven point lead in the third quarter but saw it dwindle to only two points by the end of the game. Two starters for Miami Trace fouled out in the third quarter but the Panthers managed to hang on to the win.

Leading the Panthers in scoring were Louvicia Woodfork and Sue Connor with 16 points apiece.

The reserves were led in scoring by Casandra Delay and Darla Woodfork with 10 and eight points respectively.

Panther freshman win 38-31 end season against Eagles

The Miami Trace freshman ended the season on a winning note Thursday evening defeating Madison Plains 38-31 on the Panthers court.

The score was tied after the first quarter and again at the half but Miami Trace held the Eagles scoreless in the third quarter while picking 10 points to take a 30-20 lead into the final period.

Madison Plains pulled closer in the fourth quarter with Miami Trace subing freely but the Panthers held on for the victory. The Panthers were led by Joe Black with 18 points with Brant Dunn collecting eight.

The Panthers face Madison Plains in the first round of the SCOL freshman tournament that starts Saturday at Miami Trace high school.

In final action of the year in the Miami Trace junior high league Bloomingburg defeated New Holland 38-28 with Terry Mick collecting nine points and Jack Redman receiving eight to lead Bloomingburg. New Holland was led by Dave Hennesey's nine points.

The second game saw Madison Mills defeat Jeffersonville 51-50 behind a stirring 44 points performance by Art Schlichter. Jeffersonville was led by David Glass with 13 and Craig DeMent received nine.

The third game had Eber finishing off Wayne 28-17. Eber was paced by Bill Hanners and Glen Cobb with eight points apiece and Wayne collected six points from Mark Dunn. Eber finished the season the leader with a perfect 10-0 season followed by Madison Mills 7-3, Wayne 6-4, Jefa dilly," said Ohio University basketball Coach Jim Snyder. "It's just one of those years."

The easy-going Snyder wasn't talking about the retirement rumors that swirled around him earlier in the week.

Instead, he was looking at the hectic Mid-American Conference race that has five of the seven teams only 11/2 games apart in the final stages of the

Snyder's squad and Toledo are the pacesetters with 6-3 records. Bowling Green is one game back at 5-4 and Western Michigan and Central Michigan are 11/2 games off the pace at

"Probably a team can lose four games and still be in there and maybe get a tie," said Snyder, the dean of the conference coaches in his 25th season at his alma mater.

Ohio, if it survives Western Michigan a second time this season, can grab the sole lead. The Bobcats have only two conference games remaining after the Broncos, a trip to Bowling Green and a home date with Central Michigan.

Toledo, meanwhile, still must play at Central Michigan and Kent State and at home with Miami.

Western Michigan, a 97-55 loser at Ohio earlier in the season, could cap a big week with an upset of the Bobcats. The Broncos knocked Toledo out of the Bowling Green, Western Michigan and Central Michigan all must have victories Saturday to remain in the race since most teams only have two league contests to go after this week.

Meanwhile, Ohio State tries to snap a six-game losing streak at Iowa. It's the longest losing spell in Fred Taylor's 16 coaching seasons at the Big Ten school.

Ohio State's leading scorer, Bill Andreas, will be sidelined for the second straight game with an ankle sprain. Sophomore Andy Stiegemeier again will take his place.

The Buckeyes are 6-13 for all games and last in the Big Ten with a 1-8 record. Iowa has 5-13 and 2-6 marks. The state's major independents all play Saturday. Xavier, 7-12, visits

Detroit. Cincinnati, 16-5, entertains George Washington and Dayton, 14-7, faces visiting Chattanooga. Wittenberg can wrap up the regular season Ohio Conference championship if the Tigers, 17-2 overall and 10-1 in the league, win their final OC test at Mar-

If Marietta wins, Muskingum, 15-5 and 9-2, could share the crown. The Muskies would need a triumph at Baldwin-Wallace, 4-16 and 2-9.

Other OC finales send Wooster to Capital, Mount Union to Heidelberg and Ohio Wesleyan to Oberlin.

Fight marks NBA contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The battle for first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division is a neck-and-neck affair, but Bob Lanier shouldn't take it

Lanier ended a scuffle between the Bucks' Bobby Dandridge and the Piston's John Mengelt by placing a clamp on the Milwaukee player's neck. Lanier's peace-making effort, coming with one minute left in the game, was worth a technical foul in referee Len Wirtz' eyes and the Bucks' Oscar Robertson sank the free throw to turn a two-point Milwaukee lead into a 99-96

"I guess it's a technical for trying to break up a fight," said Detroit Coach Ray Scott after the Bucks had ended the Pistons' seven-game winning streak Thursday night with a 102-99 victory. "It was a crucial call because instead of a jump ball and our being down by two points, it gave them one more point and breathing room.'

This hand brought a wide range of results at Tuesday's duplicate bridge game. Slams were played in hearts, spades, and no trump.

The ideal place to play the hand is at six no trump, which virtually unbeatable anytime neither defender holds more than four spades.

A fine bidding sequence got Mrs. Alycia Burke and Mrs. Marlene Coil to the six no trump contract, and a break on the opening lead allowed Mrs. Coil, sitting north, to make seven no trump and capture a top board.

more than four or five hours my whole system goes out of kilter. Not only am I sleepy and confused, but all my body functions are in disarray.

Can this be psychological? Mr. T. H., Fla.

Dear Mr. H.: There are indeed psychological alterations just as there are physical changes associated with the "jet lag" phenomenon. Technically this is known as

"dysrhythmia." As the name implies, the timeclock mechanisms are thrown out of their normal pattern of rhythmic behavior.

One of the most remarkable functions of the organs of the body is the exactness with which our biological time clocks work. Fluctuations of body temperature, changes in the rate of the heart beat, and urinary output are more evident when the body's time clock goes off than are the subtle changes that occur in the liver, in the spleen, the brain, the intestinal tract, and the circulatory system. The chemical and hormone balance, so carefully established by our bodies, and the normal flow of digestive juices are also disturbed from their familiar rhythm by the sudden change of time zones.

Many excellent surveys by the Armed Forces medical departments have tried to ease the disruptive effects of

Dear Mr. T.: Doctors for a long time have recognized, but not completely understood, why some people seem to be more susceptible than others to the fungus infection of the skin known as 'athlete's foot." The fungus, molds, and yeasts that cause this condition flourish on the scales of the moist skin.

This is not an allergic disorder. Your more marked sensitivity to athlete's foot simply indicates your need for better preventive measures. Thorough drying of the feet, in and out of the gymnasium, followed by the liberal use of special dusting powders can prevent recurrent infections. There are a great many excellent anti-fungal medications that can keep athlete's foot well in control.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Arthur R. Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, would allow the Ohio Medical Board to recognize the degrees of MDs graduated from foreign schools recognized by the World Health Organization.

In introducing the measure, Bowers said it was aimed at alleviating the shortage of doctors in many communities, particularly in southeastern Ohio.

Both houses of the General Assembly recessed Thursday after passing five minor bills, three in the House and two in the Senate. They will reconvene Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, meanwhile, gave initial hearings to two House-approved bills, one providing for limited no-fault divorce and the other making pyramid sales schemes a criminal offense in Ohio.

The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said he plans to begin hearings next week on a bill to ban cheap handguns within Ohio.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, is aimed at the so-called "Saturday Night specials" police contend are most often used in shootings and hold-ups.

The bill, specifically, bans their sale, use or manufacture in Ohio. A companion bill offered by Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, is also expected to be aired. It would require licensed gun dealers to obtain a photograph of hand gun purchasers.

In floor action Thursday, the House agreed to Senate amendments on a bill lifting the $3,000 lid on exemptions from the state income tax under the $500 per dependent exemption rule. It now goes to Gov. John J. Gilligan for signing into

The House also approved bills requiring newspaper notice of county building regulation changes, setting up pre-seizure hearings in replevin actions, and a measure allowing public employes to purchase military retirement credit at a lower rate.

The Senate approved two bills, one extending the life of the Civil Service Study Commission from March 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975. The other allows the administrators and executors of an estate to obtain a one per cent commission on unsold property and a two per cent commission on that sold. Confrontation looming between Nixon, Jaworski strongly worded letter to the chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has moved toward a confrontation with President Nixon.

"It is now clear that evidence I deem material to our investigations will not be forthcoming," Jaworski said in a letter Thursday to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss. The White House said the President himself made the decision to end cooperation with the investigations.

Jaworski disclosed that the material the President had refused to supply included the tapes of 27 presidential meetings and telephone calls related to the investigation of the Watergate break-in and cover-up. That number was far higher than had ever been indicated by the prosecutor's office.

Jaworski said that in rejecting his requests, the White House had given no indication "any requested recording is either irrelevant to our inquiries or subject to some particularized privilege." Eastland was in Mississippi and had no immediate comment on the letter. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a judiciary committee member, said he would request an early meeting of the panel "to consider the ominous implications of Mr. Jaworski's letter." Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told newsmen at Key Biscayne, Fla., that the President had decided Jaworski already had received sufficient material "to allow the grand juries to proceed with their work without further delay.'

Meanwhile, the President's Watergate counsel, James D. St. Clair, was engaged in negotiations with the House Judiciary committee over access to White House files for the committee's impeachment inquiry.

John Doar, chief counsel for the House inquiry, and Albert Jenner, minority counsel for the probe, told newsmen Thursday that St. Clair wanted assurances that confidentiality of White House files would be protected.

In related developments:

-Westinghouse Broadcasting said Thursday night that Jaworski has discovered more apparent gaps in tapes of presidential conversations. Westinghouse quoted what it said were well-informed sources as saying that the apparent gaps appeared during discussions between sensitive President Nixon and aides. Westinghouse said audio experts have been asked to examine the new tapes

Kidnap chief escaped convict?

BERKELEY (AP) — Authorities are reported investigating the possibility that an escaped convict is the leader of the terrorist group which kidnaped Patricia Hearst.

The San Francisco Chronicle and television station KQED said Thursday night that the man is Donald David DeFreeze, 30, who escaped from California's Soledad Prison last March 5 while serving a term for robbery, assault and possession of stolen checks. Both the newspaper and the station said DeFreeze is the "Cinque" of the Hearst kidnap case. However, the FBI said DeFreeze "is not a prime suspect at this time." DeFreeze is "one of several people who are known to have used the alias 'Cinque,'" said John Kelley, assistant in charge of the San Francisco FBI office. Cinque was the name of a leader of a slave ship revolt in the 19th cen-

The Chronicle said the man who called himself "Cinque" in a tape recorded message to the Hearst family on Tuesday was actually the leader and founder of the Symbionese Liberation

Miss Hearst, 19, was dragged from her apartment near the University of California on Feb. 4. Her execution was threatened by "Cinque" unless Miss Hearst's father finances a huge food giveaway for California's needy. This was called preliminary to negotiations for her release. The cost of such a food distribution has been estimated at as high as $400 million.

The girl's father is Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

The Chronicle said the black man named in its copyright story had astonished local longtime protest groups by offering a "contract" to kill Oakland's black school superintendent, Dr. Marcus Foster. They refused, the story said. Foster was killed in a barrage of cyanide-filled bullets last November. Two white men were arrested and charged with the killings and are now being held at San Quentin Prison.

The Chronicle and KQED reports came after a day that saw a transcontinental clash between U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and the FBI's position in San Francisco over basic strategy in the case. At one point, Hearst called the nation's top prosecutor "damn near irresponsible." Saxbe shortly backed off from his re-

Saxbe had said in a Washington news conference that authorities would be derelict if they learned where the coed was being held and didn't attempt to rescue her.

Angered by federal fines for catering to regular customers and a federal price freeze which they say cuts profits, some service station operators have closed their stations in several states and threatened shutdowns in

The situation was most serious in the metropolitan Norfolk, Va., area, where an estimated 20 service stations out of 300-400 opened today at the start of what some dealers said would be a four-day strike.

Hundreds of commuters lined up at the few open stations and still others waited in vain at pumps that rem closed. The area has a population of nearly one million persons.

Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin was urged to declare the area to be in "a state of emergency" as city officials in Virginia Beach met to discuss the situation. Bill Grimes, speaking for the Chesapeake Chamber of Commerce, 40s. said federal and state officials "don't know how serious this is. We've got a genuine emergency."

In Waterbury, Conn., where dealers closed down 54 stations Wednesday and Thursday, stations reopened to long lines of customers. Protests there and in other states showed strong opposition to a ban on special sales to regular customers and to the federal price freeze which operators claim is strangling profits.

Julie Eisenhower recovers from ovarian cyst surgery

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Julie Nixon Eisenhower was reported in satisfactory condition today and on the road to recovery from emergency major surgery performed to halt in-ternal bleeding from an ovarian cyst.

President Nixon's 25-year-old daughter was in surgery 44 minutes Thursday night at the Indiana University Medical Center where two of the state's leading gynecologists removed a benign cyst.

Her mother and her husband, David Eisenhower, had rushed by separate military jet planes to be at her side shortly after the operation. Afterward, a hospital spokesman read a statement saying Mrs. Eisenhower was experiencing some postoperative discomfort and pain, but was considered in satisfactory condition. Then he added, "She is doing very, very well.

Mrs. Eisenhower had come to Indianapolis for an editorial meeting of the Saturday Evening Post, where she is a $10,000-a-year assistant editor.

Dr. Cory SerVaas, wife of Curtis Publishing Co. board chairman Beurt SerVaas, said Mrs. Eisenhower became ill during the meeting and was taken to their home in the northwest Indianapolis suburbs.

Crude oil allocation plan hits hangup

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Now even the Federal Energy office wants to scrap most of the federal crude oil allocation plan. But it has to get Congress to do it.

The FEO wants major revisions in the plan that will, in effect, get rid of a requirement that all refineries produce at 76 per cent of capacity. As it stands now, those with more than 76 per cent must sell their excess crude oil to that it went to court Thursday to get a court order halt the program before it can take effect. The plan requires companies with large crude supplies to share them with firms with smaller supplies. The allocation law was designed to solve two major problems brought on by the Arab oil embargo: -Help even out the distribution of oil

He said it should be changed to ensure supplies to the small independent refiners, but not to force major companies to transfer supplies among themselves. Thus the majors would only have to sell to small independents whose crude supplies have been cut off by the Arab oil embargo and not to major competitors.

Deaths, Funerals

NICK A. VRETTOS

Death claims Nick Vrettos

Nick A. Vrettos, 72, of 401 E. Temple St., retired owner and operator of The Goody Shoppe, 133 N. Main St., died at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient since Monday.

Mr. Vrettos, who moved to America from Greece in 1914, retired as owner of The Goody Shoppe March 27, 1971, after 44 years in the business.

Upon arriving in America, Mr. Vrettos worked in steel mills and then carried water for a railroad gang in Minneapolis, Minn., for nearly seven years before moving to Moline, Ill., where he was promoted to a job in the railyard roundhouse. He was transferred to the Massillon railyards and was employed there until moving to Washington C.H. in 1926.

At first, he was in a partnership with the late Nick Rambos in the restaurant operation but took over complete ownership in 1934.

He married the former Lula Pappas. of Columbus, who survives, on May 12, 1929, and they worked in the restaurant together until retiring in 1971. Mr. Vrettos was a member of the Greek Orthodox Church, Columbus.

Surviving besides his wife are a daughter, Mrs. James (Mary) Vasos, of Columbus; two sons, Thomas, 517 E. Market St., and Michael, 539 Frank St., four grandchildren and a brother and two sisters who live in Greece.

Funeral services are being arranged by the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Mrs. Mason Duncan

Mrs. Nellie Duncan, 64, of 603 McLean St., died at 4:38 p.m. Thursday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient since Feb. 6. She had been in failing health for the past three years.

Mrs. Duncan was born in Madison County but had lived in the Washington C.H. area for the past 40 years. She was a member of the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

She is survived by her husband, Mason Duncan; three sons, Harold, Columbus, Fred, Grove City, and Donald, of 908 Washington Ave.; two sisters, Mrs. Earl (Hazel) Jarrett, Englewood, Mrs. Wayne (Mildred) Williams, South Solon; 16 grandchildren, and 5 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Kline officiating. Burial will be in Sedalia Cemetery Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. Saturday and from 2 until 9 p.m. Sunday.

Edward A. Earls

Service arrangements for Edward A. Earls, 75, formerly of 1181/2 E. Market St., will be announced later by the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Mr. Earls, an Army veteran of World War I, died at 1:45 a.m. Thursday in Brown VA Hospital, Dayton, where he had been a patient two weeks.

He is survived by a brother, John, of Lake Park, Fla., and three sisters, Mrs. Cora Watson, Tipton, Ind., Mrs. Basil Scott, Gandeeville, W. Va., and Mrs. Ruth Klingenbeel, Lake Worth,

Mrs. Chloe E. Arnold

Graveside services for Mrs. Chloe E. Myers Arnold, 83, formerly of 927 Mount Joy, Springfield, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Bloomingburg Cemetery with the Rev. Gerald Wheat of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Mrs. Arnold, the widow of Glenn Arnold, died Wednesday.

Services will be conducted by the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home and friends may call there from 2 to 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. on Friday.

MRS. MILDRED LARICK - Services for Mrs. Mildred Larick, 75, Sabina, were held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Littleton Funeral Home. with the Rev. Robert Miller officiating, and Mrs. Walter Stackhouse at the organ. Mrs. Larick died Tuesday. Born in Greene County, she was the widow of Harry O. Larick who died in 1972. Pallbearers for the burial in Grape Grove Cemetery, Greene County, were Jack Collins, Beryle Carter, Bob Ellis, Bob Henry, Jim Morris and Eugene Cramer.

Israel hopeful of Egypt's intent

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent Israel these days seems increasingly hopeful that her main military foe, Egypt, is in earnest about a settlement and that even the Syrians are ready for disengagement of forces.

But she worries that other dangers to peace and stability lie around the fringes of the Middle East.

Competent sources close to the situation note that Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, who years ago was considered a fanatical foe of Israel, sounds more and more these days like a genuine voice of moderation. They say this transformation is due to Sadat's hopes of getting the Egyptian economy on the rails.

They suggest Syria has compelling practical reasons to accept disengagement and is under strong Egyptian and perhaps even Soviet pressure to do so. She has nothing to lose by it, having given up territory in the war. Disengagement would simply mean an Israeli pullback to Golan Heights positions held before the October war.

The sources say they think the Syrian regime will accept when and if it feels it has overcome internal opposition to the

Bloomingburg PTO planning carnival

BLOOMINGBURG — Bloomingburg PTO President Walter Smithson has announced plans for the spring carnival and supper to be held Friday, March 1, with the cafeteria opening at 5:30 p.m. Games and cake walks will begin at 6 p.m.

The treasurer, Mrs. Roger Rapp, announced at a meeting this week that the group earned $187 at the January skating party and $123 from the preholiday bake sale.

Smithson appointed Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Mick and Mrs. Helen Pope as the nominating committee for next year's officers.

Approval was given to Principal Ron Grottendick to repair the school flag pole, to purchase two gym mats for use by all eight grades, and to finish the payment for some musical instruments for the music department. He gave special thanks to Barton and the school-room clocks.

Following the business meeting, Ronald Lott, psychologist for Miami Trace Schools, outlined some of the responsibilities and goals of his job. He stressed the need of an area school for physically handicapped youngsters; the desirability of early identification of slow learners and those with learning as well as physical disabilities; and the importance of helping behaviorial problems by means of testing and counseling. He closed with a question and answer period.

3,400 of the state's 20,000 service station operators, said they would take a 'vacation" March 22 unless they are granted a gasoline price increase.

The 300-member Southern California Retailers Association said it was planning a shutdown of service stations for Feb. 24.

About 2,000 service station dealers in Washington and Oregon issued an ultimatum to the federal government saying they would pump their tanks dry if their demands were not met by midnight Monday.

Spokesmen for the Evergreen Service Station Association of Washington and the Oregon Dealers Association said the demands included more police protection, a minimum increase of five per cent in gasoline allocations and authority to raise prices. Federal energy chief William E. Simon, invoking the Emergency Petroleum Act of 1973, has directed service stations to treat all customers alike or be fined $5,000.

Max Victor, executive director of the New York State Association of Service Stations, said the federal order amounted to "telling dealers to forget about good will and, in many cases, to forget a clientele he's worked for years to build up." In Connecticut, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has asked the state's attorney general to seek a federal court ruling on whether the Simon action is legal.

Meskill said he would not enforce the ban in his state and supported gasoline retailers who closed down 54 stations in Waterbury Wednesday and Thursday.

A 1,300-member retailers association on Long Island, N.Y., said it is gathering support for a march on Washington to protest the gasoline shortage in the area.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, Moammar Khadafy of Libya and the leftist Iragis.

Faisal, who made the Arab oil weapon possible, has said publicly that he won't rest until he can pray at the Mosque of Omar in Jerusalem under an Arab flag. Privately, he's said to be much more bellicose.

But Faisal has enough other problems to give him pause. Not the least of these are worries about fellow Arabs as he looks sourly north at the Soviet-armed regime in Iraq and the antiroyalist cast of various guerrilla movements.

The stability of the whole Middle East can be upset by a current phenomenon that worries many besides the Israelis. That is the wholesale swapping of modern arms for oil. Faisal is being deluged with offers of arms, and that "military balance" the Americans always tried to maintain by cautious arming of Jordan and Saudi Arabia is out the window.

Faisal, though, would be no match for some of his more powerful neighbors in a showdown. In addition, he is reported to fret about punitive ambitions of heavily armed, oil-rich Iran, a non-Arab kingdom with ambitions in the Persian Gulf area. Thus, Faisal may feel he needs friends and be inclined to heed counsels of moderation.

Hiestand asks study of DST

COLUMBUS - State Rep. Joseph Hiestand has proposed legislation which would direct the House Select Committee on Energy to conduct a study of the effects on Ohio of Daylight Savings Time during the winter months.

"The federal Daylight Savings Time Act of 1973 requires the United States Secretary of Transportation to submit an interim report to Congress by June 30, 1974, concerning the operation and effect of year-round Daylight Savings

"This report is to elaborate on its effect on the use of energy, traffic safety, the safety of school children and crime. Therefore, we must have facts available relative to the effects in Ohio so that we are prepared to present factual data as to the effect upon the State of Ohio."

The committee Rep. Hiestand added, would, in preparing the report, be Washington Savings Bank for donating allowed to "use any method it deems appropriate, to include the authorization of studies, the hearing of testimony, and the collecting of supporting data.

The Select Committee's report would be due by May 1 Hiestand concluded, adding that "decisions on these energy problems should be made on the basis of facts and the best interest of the public, not on the basis of chance, biased data or default."

The legislation has the support of 44 co-sponsors.

Keep quiet about Dean, judge asks

WASHINGTON (AP) - An earthquake today shook parts of the Texas Panhandle and adjoining Oklahoma and Kansas areas, the U.S. Geological Service reported.

The quake, recorded at 8:33 a.m. Texas time, registered an estimated magnitude of between 4 and 4.5 on the Richter scale. The quake's center was located about Prime rate coming down across U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) - Commercial prime lending rate is going down after last year's controversial gains, and many analysts contend the severity of the nation's economic problems will determine how far it

The prime rate, the base lending fee on loans to top business customers, isn't directly tied to consumer and small business loans. But it frequently is a guide to trends in the rates charged on such loans and interest charges in general.

Money analysts and economists say the prime's decline in 1974 is very much tied to the state of the economy, just as its rise to an all-time high of 10 per cent was linked to the economy in 1973.

Bankers Trust Co., the nation's eighth largest commercial bank, announced Thursday it was dropping its prime rate to 9 per cent from 91/4 per cent. The smaller First National Bank in St. Louis and Manufacturers Bank in Los Angeles did the same, as did Cleveland Trust Co. last week. The lower rate was expected to become industrywide.

Money analysts add that there is little doubt that there will be more drops shortly.

In the long run, Lionel D. Edie, the research arm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, predicts the rate before moving up again will hit a low of 6½ per cent in September or sooner close to the 6 per cent level at the beginning of 1973.

The research firm, which contends the nation already is into its third month of a recession, says slowed business activity is lowering demand for loans. This, it says, makes the supply of loan funds more available and pushes down the cost of borrowing.

Snow covers northern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow dusted scattered areas from the Rockies to the Appalachians today as subfreezing cold clung to most of the northern half of the nation.

Thunderstorms broke out in springlike mildness warming a large part of the South. Generally light snow ranged through the northern Rockies and into the Plains, the upper Mississippi Valley, portions of the Great Lakes and the northern Appalachians. Temperatures dipped into the teens from the northern Plains to the Middle Atlantic States. Cold-wave warnings were in effect overnight in sections of southern New England.

Subzero cold persisted from the northern Great Lakes region to interior New England.

In the South, an inch or more of rain splashed into areas of Georgia and the Carolinas, and there were scattered reports of hail from thunderstorms

Nixon cancels family dinner

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) -Canceling a planned Valentine's Day dinner for family and friends, President Nixon waited alone at his bayside home here today for medical reports on daughter Julie Eisenhower, recuperating from surgery in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Nixon flew from Florida to the Indiana capital aboard a small Air Force jet Thursday afternoon after learning her 25-year-old daughter faced emergency surgery to stem internal bleeding caused by an ovarian cyst.

The President had planned a Thursday night dinner at a Key Biscayne restaurant for the first lady, daughter Tricia Cox, friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo and top aides who flew here with him Wednesday for a weekend stay.

Nixon drew a mixed reception at the hospital ceremony. Invited guests cheered him lustily and waved hand-lettered "We Love You" and "Hang In There" messages written on the backs of their dedication programs. Further away, behind three rows of rope barri-cades, vocal critics booed and chanted "impeachment now."

The President, ignoring the dissidents, plugged his national health insurance proposal while saying a rival plan, sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., would cost $80 billion and damage the quality of health

While Nixon estimated his plan would add $5.9 billion a year to federal spending, proponents of the Kennedy measure contend the total bill for either plan — including contributions by workers and their employers — would be about the same.

Idling your gas away

Professional test drivers speak highly of the feather touch as a way of saving gasoline. What they mean is that going easy on the accelerator, while it may not move you as fast, will get you from one point to another with less fuel consumed.

This involves a lot of things avoiding jackrabbit starts and snappy passing of the car ahead, easing off in anticipation of stops, timing arrival at traffic lights, and so on.

A related gas-saving trick is now being touted by the Consumers Union. Its tests show that significant amounts of fuel can be conserved by shutting off the engine if you're going to stay put more than a minute. Idling burns gas.

To illustrate the point, Consumers Union says a mile-long lineup of idling six-cylinder cars consumes 150 gallons of gas in an hour. Eightcylinder jobs burn 67 per cent more than that.

So turn off the ignition, and you'll have a little more gas left in the tank when you get up to the pump.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Postal rates are set in the dark

Plans for forming a federal company to exploit any oil found on public lands are being kicked around in Washington. The idea, set forth by Lee White, a former Federal Power Commission chairman, is that federal drilling and pumping, mainly on offshore sites, would provide a salutary "yard-stick" operation, even as the Tennessee Valley Authority was supposed to offer a restraining check on the pricing policies of the privately owned utilities.

The "yardstick" theory was always phony: as Wendell Willkie tried to tell TVA boss David Lilienthal in the Thirties, government-owned companies have no tax problems, no great difficulties about commanding new capital, and can never go broke unless foreign invaders take over the country.

Their inefficiencies are never exposed to the corrective influence of market forces. So how can a federally owned company be used to "measure" anything?

We could learn if we only would. Almost to the day that I read about the proposed federal oil "yardstick" in an ecstatic column by a still wide-eyed survivor of the New Deal epoch, I met a man named John L. Ryan. Mr. Ryan, a citizen of Indianapolis, served for 34 months as a charter member of the United States Postal Rate Commission.

During the last three months of his incumbency he was the commission chairman. Before getting into his postal-rate work he was, for 20 months, chairman of the Indiana Public Service Commission. Surely, with such a background, Mr. Ryan might be expected to know something about setting public rates.

HIS CONCLUSION about himself and his colleagues, however, is most disillusioning. The Post Office is part part competitive, and there is no way of knowing how much to take away from the monopoly service to support the competitive end. The Postal Service commissioners may be entirely honest, but they "cannot even apply much independent judgment as to what individual rates should be." Such is Mr. Ryan's despairing com-

Private competition with the Post Office is permitted by law when it comes to distributing third - and fourthclass mail. A small package shipper can choose between the government Postal Service, the private United Parcel Service, and a variety of regional carriers.

The intermingling of monopoly and competition makes a "market" judgment impossible. Says Mr. Ryan, "Any income requirement that cannot be produced

This is all to the good, but inevitably first class." The taxpayer can be called upon to make up for the shortfall, or first-class rates can be raised to keep the whole operation in the black. But nobody will ever know what the rates would have been if there had been competition across the board.

Letter carrying is not a natural monopoly; anyone could enter the business if the law would only allow it. Mr. Ryan, after his 34 months of wrestling with the problem of a mixed business that has been putting "an increasingly larger burden on the firstclass mailers," concludes that open competition in carrying any and all mail, first class as well as parcels and bulk, is the only thing that will really serve the customer.

With free competition, says Mr. Ryan, "mail service to the citizens will dramatically improve and in a few more years there will be startling new . . . by competitive services falls on technology in the way mail is handled."

NEW YORK (AP) — When I first started writing a newspaper column, I had visionary ideas of changing mankind, toppling thrones by day and relaxing in the evenings in the boudoirs of famed movie queens.
But a wise, old editor shattered these youthful dreams by taking me aside and telling me, "Son, if you want to stay out of trouble, avoid writing about three subjects - religion, politics and

I took him at his word. That is why, after 30 years at the typewriter, I can number the thrones I have toppled on one hand — and still have five fingers left over. But no matter how humble his nature, a columnist feels he has to show the world he is someone to be reckoned with — that the power of the press is a very real thing.

So as my first adventure into controversy, several years ago I came out with a bitter denunciation against poison snakes as a menace to the American way of life. I thought that was safe enough.

However, when I later made a tabulation of the mail that came in, I found, much to my disgust, that 212 readers supported me and 475 came out in favor of poison snakes — some even castigating me and asking why I didn't pick on something my size.

Since then, I've been as meek as a columnist can be. My pen has been dipped in lamb fat.

But meekness is not enough. You can get in trouble about anything. Even buttermilk. The following letter is self-ex-

Once I found a motel key in his coat pocket, and he had the gall to tell me that he got tired driving so he checked into this motel to take a nap. (Three miles from home!)

Last year he had an operation which left him practically impotent, and since then I couldn't ask for a more devoted husband. He phones me if he knows he's going to be half an hour late. He buys me presents, sends me flowers, and even takes me on business trips, which he never did before. New Sunday school program

The Commission on Education and the Sunday school teachers of the New Holland United Methodist Church met recently and have decided to add several special programs, beginning on Sunday, March 3. Under the direction of Mrs. Dean Tarbill, Sunday school superintendent, devotions for all classes will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary, prior to the departure to the classrooms at 9:45. To encourage participation, an attendance contest will also start on March 3, with awards given every 3 months. A banquet is planned at the end of the 52 weeks for those who have attended every Sunday for the Sunday school. If another church was attended a written certificate will be accepted, be granted.

It was pointed out that the Sunday School needs a new class for young people who are out of high school. All those who are interested should meet on Sunday, Feb. 17, at 9:45 a.m. in the sanctuary. This class will include single guys and gals, young marrieds and returning college students.

On the first Sunday of each month, a Sunday school class and its teacher will be honored during the church service. The Junior High Class will be the March "Class of the Month" and will sit together in the sanctuary.

A Mission Study for children in grades 1-4 will start on Feb. 17. They will be studying the Jewish faith, and a trip to a Columbus Synagogue is but no absences because of illness will planned for the entire church congregation.

26 over 1972. Complete books of the Bible were published in 25 new languages or dialects in 1973. They ranged from dialects. The new total is an increase of Achual, spoken in Peru, to Yakurr, spoken in Nigeria. Publishers included Bible Societies and six other organizations. Kewa: West, a dialect which is spoken in Australia, was the 26th new language. It made its debut in the language count as a complete New Testament. The American Bible Society currently is assisting the work of the translation or revision of the Scriptures in 500 languages or dialects - involving approximately 3,000 translators in various parts of the world. Founded in 1816 with the three-fold purpose of translating, publishing and distributing the Scriptures, without doctrinal note or comment, the American Bible Society, in recent years, has taken the lead in the production of common-language versions of the Scriptures throughout the world.

In September 1966 the American Bible Society published "Good News for Modern Man," the New Testament in Today's English Version, which currently has a circulation figure in excess of 43 million copies. The complete Bible in Today's English Version will be published in 1976, which will be the 160th anniversary of the founding of the Society

In some Protestant denominations. the continued tide of new ministers is so strong, says the Rev. Roddey Reid Jr., a specialist on the matter, that there is "a significant number of unemployed clergy for the first time in history. The Rev. Mr. Reid, of New York City, head of the clergy deployment office of the Episcoal Church in which the surplus has been particularly heavy, says there is a steadily increasing number of clergy "in proportion to the number of parishes.'

"It's something new in the history of the Church in America," he adds.

However, a reverse condition is evident in Roman Catholicism in which the number of seminarians continues to shrink. It's a "critical problem," says the Rev. Adrian Fuerst, of the Church's Center for Applied Research in the Apostolate, of Washington, D.C. He blames the downturn on a lack of active recruitment efforts by bishops and priests — a job that some of them lately have begun beefing up with advertising campaigns and other methods in face of portents of shor-Over-all, enrollment of the nation's Protestant and Catholic theological schools — 189 of them — was up 5.6 per cent this term to 34,923 over the previous year's total of 33,036. While the figures, compiled by the interdenominational accrediting association, showed the number of Catholic seminarians down 5.2 per cent to 5,467, most Protestant denominational totals were up. In most mainline Protestant bodies, the output of new ministers "is keeping up with or running ahead of need," says the Rev. Marvin Taylor, the association's associate director. He notes there are exceptions, particularly in evangelical Protestant denominations whose membership and ministerial needs have continued to

Most larger denominations, however, have had membership declines in recent years - while the flow of students into the ministry generally has continued unabated or increased.

The view has become widespread in Protestantism that "there already are too many clergy," says the Rev. Mr. Taylor but he adds that the cases of excess are spotty, varying by denomination and region.

Progress Club Mrs. Carl Janes welcomed members of the Jeffersonville Progress Club to her home for the February meeting. Mrs. Robert Owens, president, greeted members and one guest, Mrs. James Paisley.

For the opening, she read a Valentine poem and conducted the business session. An honorary membership was presented to Miss Maude Routson, a 43year member.

Members answered roll call by naming an Irving Berlin melody. Mrs. Janes presented the program when she reviewed the book, "Irving Berlin, Master Composer of Twentieth Century Songs," by Barbara Salsini.

Mrs. Janes told the group that the book is not a story of one man, but of an entire epoch. His thousand songs mirror the social history of the country for almost three quarters of a century.

The writer said he discovered the root needs and sentiments of all American lives and magically caught them in music. Berlin was born in Russia but chose to live in America, and compiled a book of America's music so huge that it would fill a library all by itself.

This collection included "God Bless America" the most stirring of all patriotic songs, and sometimes called our unofficial national anthem. It also includes "Blue Skies" an affirmation of all good things in life, "There is No Business Like Show Business" the theme song of the entertainment industry, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" another song of the jazz age. Mrs. Janes played all of these popular numbers on the stereo and closed her review by saying critics called Berlin a 'genius.'

During the social hour, the members were seated at a long table decorated with a Valentine decor and a centerpiece of carnations and red candles. A dessert was served.

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Let us establish right off the bat that CBS' new "Apple's Way" series on Sundays is corn. It's literate, middle-class, fairly sophisticated and well-acted, but it's still

But by neddies, this homey saga an Iowa-born architect who leaves the sun-kissed life of Los Angeles to rediscover his home town, small town roots is an oddly promising show.

The series is created by Earl Hamner, author of "The Waltons."

Last Sunday's debut show, concerning George Apple's fight to save an old oak tree, wasn't too swift. It had some nice moments, but some unusually hokey ones, particularly the ending.

Still, the basic series idea seems sound, even if it appears to be "The Waltons" with fewer kids and far more money in a modern, small town atmosphere totally isolated from such major issues as Watergate, no gas, unemployment, pollution and ring-aroundthe collar

This is an appealing setting and nuts to reality, I'll buy it. Particularly if future scripts live up to the quality of this Sunday's effort. It's way, way better than the first offering.

It's a straightforward yarn about Apple's involvement with a 16-year-old former high school athlete crippled for life in an auto accident in which his father was at the wheel. The guiltridden, sports-crazy father refuses to believe the damage is permanent.

The la's main interest is music and his guitar. Old Dad considers this a "hobby" and a nuisance in the way of physical therapy he thinks will get his son out of a wheelchair someday.

Apple gets in the act when the boy, offered a chance to play lead guitar in a high school group, learns the architect is a fair guitarist himself. He asks for and gets some brush-up lessons.

I don't want to spoil the ending, but suffice it to say the musical opposition — Old Dad — finally sees the light in a closing concert scene that could have been awful but was handled beautifully.

COPE ends Cincy meet

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) - The AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) was to finish a twoday regional session here today after announcing as its aim the assembling of a "veto-proof Congress," dominated by Democrats.

The labor group heard from a lineup of candidates it has endorsed for 1974, including U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a Democratic presidential hopeful.

Jackson told the labor leader "to phase out the Republicans" in 1974. He said Americans "have had a bellyful" of the Nixon Administration.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., accused the Nixon Administration of "a conspiratorial relationship" with the nation's major oil companies.

He predicted the economy "is going to go into reverse" unless quickly remedied.

Reds sink fishing boat

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - North Korea captured a South Korean fishing boat and sank a second one today in an act of "grave, deliberate armed provocation," the South Korean government charged.

The Defense Ministry said North Korean gunboats opened fire on the two vessels - both reportedly unarmed and each carrying a crew of 12 — in a disputed part of the Yellow Sea.

It was the first shooting incident reported between the North and South since they issued a joint communique on July 4, 1972, pledging to refrain from hostile action.

Rescuers reported that all 12 crew members aboard the sunken craft, the Suwon No. 21, were missing. The Defense Ministry said it did not know if there were any casualties on the other boat, the Suwon No. 33.

Chang Key-young, of the joint North-South coordinating committee, sent a formal protest to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang demanding that the 12 crew members aboard the captured ship be returned immediately. He said the boats were engaged in peaceful fishing operations on open seas when attacked.

Energy concern 3 to 5 years late, expert says

1970, The Associated Press reported that government officials and industry experts were forecasting a worsening energy shortage. Now the crisis has come, and in new interviews, four of these men discuss the current situation and how they think it could have been averted.

By JEAN HELLER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - An energy expert who once was a key administration adviser says the current energy crisis could have been averted if government and the public had cared enough about it three to five years ago to take preventive action.

S. David Freeman, former director of President Nixon's energy policy staff, said Nixon is misleading the nation by refusing to institute gas rationing, thereby leading the public to believe the energy pinch isn't really serious.

"The President is still catering to a notion that somehow rationing is a national crime, leading people to believe that we should try to avoid it at all costs," Freeman said in an interview. "There's a shortage — a real shortage - and I don't know why he won't face the cold, hard facts.'

Project, is one of a group of government, industry and business officials who predicted in interviews more than three years ago that the nation was headed for an energy crisis.

In new interviews, four of them discussed the intervening years and how they have coped with the crisis they foresaw.

Braintree, Mass., a suburban Boston community of more than 40,000, is one of the hardest hit areas in the nation in terms of fuel supply and prices. In less than four years, the price of the fuel oil it takes to run the city's electrical system has risen 1,000 per cent.

"We're going to make it through this winter because we now have a threemonth supply of fuel oil on hand," said Alban G. Spurrell, manager of the Braintree Electric Light Department.

"But nobody knows what the future holds," he added. "We've been cut off by our supplier as of the end of that three-month supply. God knows what we'll do then.'

On July 31, 1970, Spurrell's department was paying $1.79 a barrel for its fuel oil. His latest supply cost him $17.80 per barrel. He has no choice but to pass on the increased costs to his customers whose bills, Spurrell says, have at least doubled since 1970.

"Looking back on it," he said, "there doesn't seem any reason the oil com-they could have increased their production in preparation for it.

"We blame the oil companies and the federal government because the federal government knew, too. If the politicians had done five years ago what they're doing now - the allocation, the education, the speed limit reductions, the requests that people turn down their thermostats — maybe people wouldn't have cooperated as much as they are now, but even a little cooperation could have helped."

Things aren't much brighter for the utilities that use coal

The Tennessee Valley Authority is the nation's largest electric utility in generating capacity and, as such, burns more than 40 million tons of coal each year. James Watson, the TVA power manager, said he had a 75-day supply on hand as of mid-February, but had no idea where future supplies would come from.

"The coal supply problem in the United States is mounting pretty fast," Watson said. "The problem is simple. We're using more than we're mining. And a lot of coal which might be mined is being left in the ground because its sulphur content makes it too dirty to burn under the air pollution laws.

"The President has made some statements about relaxing the laws for panies couldn't have avoided this. They knew years ago what was coming and any new mines opened. It takes four years to get a reasonable size underground mine into production. It also takes about $30 million to $40 million."

Freeman, a former member of the administration, agrees with the critics who blame the government, at least in part, for not averting the crisis.

As early as 1971, Freeman said, he noted in writing the President's energy message that the nation didn't have any reserve capacity to produce oil, or any reserve storage capacity.

"I tried to get somebody interested in government investment in stockpiling oil, in beefing up the naval reserves, but I couldn't get anyone to seriously consider it. If we had our naval petroleum reserves ready to produce a million or two million barrels a day, this interruption in imports from the Persian Gulf wouldn't be having any appreciable impact," Freeman said.

Freeman said there should have been action years ago to improve mass transportation, improve the insulation of private homes and develop the technology to burn coal cleanly.

"We've piddled around with the job of burning coal cleanly since 1967 and never made an all-out effort," he said.

How long will the crisis last? "This situation will get gradually worse, week by week, month by month,

Two MTHS seniors named to scholastic 'Who's Who'

Two Miami Trace High School seniors have been selected to appear in the eighth annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74.

Biographies of Barbara Marvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Marvin, Rt. 1, New Holland, and Gary A. Cobb, son of Arthur Cobb, CCC Highway-E, will be among those featured in the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from more than 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the book. Less than 3 per cent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

In addition to having their biographies published, the two MTHS seniors will also compete for one of 10 scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers" later in the academic year.

Barbara is secretary of Student Council, vice president of the Future Teachers Association, a member of the National Honor Society, editor-in-chief of the Miami Tracer newspaper staff and a member of the school's "In the Know" team.

She plans to work at Ohio Bell telephone company, Columbus, following graduation and possibly attend Franklin University.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Standard Oil of California says it is proceeding immediately to shut down production next to Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve to comply with a court order.

But a company statement called the ruling Thursday difficult to understand because the production is "providing gasoline, jet fuel, diesel fuel and fuel oil badly needed in the current energy shortage."

U.S. District Court Judge M.D. Crocker ordered production halted based on congressional mandates to hold Elk Hills oil for a national defense emergency.

Standard said the 18,000 barrels tapped daily from its new Tule Elk pool represents 12.9 per cent of the company's California production and 2.5 per cent of its production nationwide. Standard attorney Turner H. McBaine said estimates that 300 barrels were drawn from the adjacent Navy oil reserve daily and said the amount "hardly seems sufficient reason for shutting off Standard's pro-

The petroleum producing and refining industry has, in fact, never achieved an average 14 per cent return on net worth since 1955, although it did reach a whopping 22.1 per cent average

The year 1973 could, of course, prove to be an exception, although the figures won't be complete for several weeks. For 1972 the rate of return for leading manufacturers was 10.5 per cent.

One week remains

Bailey continues to lead scoring

With just one scant week remaining in regular season cage action - with the exception of Wilmington who finished Feb. 22 - Hillsboro's Kevin Bailey maintains a comfortable lead in overall scoring statistics. The fiery guard has amassed a blistering 338 points through 17 games for a nifty 19.9 point per game average.

Closet competitor to Bailey in number of points scored is Miami Trace's Dave Persinger. The dominating center has totaled 286 points through 17 outings for a 16.8 average. In terms of percentages Dave Joslin-Madison Plains' top point maker - ranks second to Bailey with a neat 16.9 average after 16 games. Fourth place goes to Washington C.H.'s "super soph" Doug Phillips with a 15.9 mean and fifth position belongs to Wilmington's Randy Reeder.

In SCOL games alone Bailey again holds a prestigious lead with a 21.7 average compared to second place stand-in Joslin who maintains a 16.9 average. Kris Kline of Circleville is positioned in the third spot with a 16.5 average, Persinger holds fourth with a 16.3 average and fifth place goes to Phillips with a 15.7 point per game

The overall team statistics have Washington C.H. scoring the most points - 67.6 - with Hillsboro clinging to points and grabbing 16 rebounds. The second scoring 65.5 Circleville shows the toughest team to score against allowing only 54.4 points while Washington C.H. is the second stingest team giving up 61.3. Wilmington again has the distinction of having the weekest scoring attack - 55.9 - and the poorest defense allowing 71.9 points to

by Sports Editor Dennis Stapleton

After last weekends games the stage was set for the showdown everyone had expected all season. Madison Plains found remarkably accuracy - around 80 per cent at one time - to blast Greenfield 83-57, Hillsboro was nugged by Paint Valley on Friday 71-70 and cleaned by Circleville on Saturday 67-58, Miami Trace was white-washed by Circleville 58-52 and Washington C.H. found unknown fire power in Craig Shaffer to rip Wilmington 101-59.

The action left Washington C.H. in command of the SCOL with Miami Trace nesting in the second seat desperately needing a win over the Lions Tuesday to tie the league.

Finally the night came when the two top teams would meet to decide who was the best in the SCOL. There were predictions that Washington C.H. would run away with the game. That the speed and overall height advantage would be too much for the Panthers. Yet, other people felt that Miami Trace would win but by a small margin in a low scoring game. Some even felt that the old hex of Washington C.H. always chokes against Miami Trace would

THERE WERE many other beliefs also but Washington C.H. ended all predictions by defeating Miami Trace 74-67. The Lions led practically the whole game again finding Craig Shaffer the big gun. After 15 games of being the playmaker an assist man Shaffer found the scoring touch. His 34 points against Wilmington set a personal high for the spitfire guard. But not resting on his laurals Shaffer's deadly touch was again felt as he accounted for 26 points against Miami Trace. The Panthers boxed Shaffer up with man-to-man coverage and he struck for points. Miami Trace tried zone and Shaffer shot over the defense. Nothing was to be done to stop the fiery

Doug Phillips - "Super Soph" for the Lions - banged in his average of 16 points. In just two players the Lions had amassed over half of their points. Everyone else was held to within

Miami Trace on the other hand shinned at spots and sputtered at others. Senior center Dave Persinger played inspired basketball sinking 22 matchup everyone had been talking parts of the game. Persinger was left to contend with Doug Boswell - a good leaper but no match for Persinger's heighth or size. Wallace ended the game with nine points and 10 rebounds. Boswell escaped with four points and a handful of lose shots.

Dave Steinhauser played up to his potential collecting 15 points and numerous rebounds. Again two players accounting for more than half the teams total points. Jeff King reached his average of 14 points but had chances of getting more. Randy Reiber produced 10 points - almost three points below his average. Steve Mowery could only account for two points - those coming with less than four minutes remaining in the game. Phil Skinner managed only two points in limited action and Jay Mossbarger collected two in the fourth quarter.

FOUR OF the five Miami Trace starters accounted for 61 of the 67 points scored. The remaining four players that saw action could muster only six points between them.

Herein lies Washington C.H.'s

Following Shaffer's 26 points and Phillips' 16 counters were the following. Wallace received nine, Kenny Knisley collected eight, - below both their averages - Boswell accounted for four, Chuck Byrd garnered seven and Alan Coppock sank four. The two extra players Washington C.H. utilized accounted for eight points and counting the lowest starter you have three men managing 15 points. Miami Traces three substitutes plus the lowest starter produced only six points - thus the difference in the game.

With Washington C.H. wrapping up the league title the games this weekend prove no more than possible warmups for post season tournament play. The Lions travel to Hillsboro to end the season for both teams. Also both teams are in the same tournament along with Greenfield and could possibly race each other again. Madison Plains visits Miami Trace - also the last game for the Panthers with Madison Plains finishing the season up Saturday against Westfall. Wilmington and Greenfield duel at Washington high school completing the season for the Tigers with Wilmington ending up next Friday against Lebanon. Circleville about - Persinger against Jeff Wallace - takes a break Friday but completes the wasn't to be. Wallace received early 1973-74 season Saturday against state foul problems and sat on the bench ranked and county rival Teays Valley.

Daytona 500 field ready

Add "reformed dropouts" Cale Yarborough and Bobby Isaac to milliondollar winners David Pearson and Richard Petty and you have the favorites for Sunday's richest stock car race of all time, the Daytona 500.

Yarborough and Isaac won a pair of 112½-mile qualifying races Thursday and will start the $275,000 main event at Daytona International Speedway in the second row. Pearson won the pole with a 185.017 miles an hour speed in one-lap runs last Sunday and Petty was second best with 183.176. This earned them the front row in the Daytona, shortened to 450 miles this year as a bow to the energy crisis.

Yarborough, who spent two seasons in U.S. Auto Club championship cars with mediocre success, said "I have a year of stock car racing under my belt again and I feel as good as I ever have about the Daytona 500.' He won it in 1968. Recalling this, Yarborough said "they've moved Victory Lane since than and I had trouble finding it, but I know where it is

MT girls win twice

The Miami Trace varsity and reserve girls defeated Unioto Thursday evening 45-43 and 34-17 respectively.

The varsity started out slow but the game was tied at the half 23-23. Miami Trace opened up a seven point lead in the third quarter but saw it dwindle to only two points by the end of the game. Two starters for Miami Trace fouled out in the third quarter but the Panthers managed to hang on to the win.

Leading the Panthers in scoring were Louvicia Woodfork and Sue Connor with 16 points apiece.

The reserves were led in scoring by Casandra Delay and Darla Woodfork with 10 and eight points respectively.

Notre Dame tops Fordham, 79-69

"E" for effort but couldn't make the grade against Notre Dame.

For high scores, you can't beat "A" - and that's what Notre Dame had in Adrian Dantley Thursday night.

"He's been the big difference in our team," said Notre Dame Coach "Digger" Phelps after Dantley scored 27 points to lead a 79-69 victory over the Rams. "He gives us balance. We can strike from any side of the court. "

The final score wasn't indicative of the Fighting Irish power and poise. Actually, the nation's third-ranked basketball team put the game away in the first half, running to an 18-point lead shortly before intermission.

MAC cage race tightens up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "It's been a dilly," said Ohio University basketball Coach Jim Snyder. "It's just one of those years."

The easy-going Snyder wasn't talking about the retirement rumors that swirled around him earlier in the week. Instead, he was looking at the hectic Mid-American Conference race that has five of the seven teams only 11/2 games apart in the final stages of the

Snyder's squad and Toledo are the pacesetters with 6-3 records. Bowling Green is one game back at 5-4 and Western Michigan and Central Michigan are 11/2 games off the pace at

"Probably a team can lose four games and still be in there and maybe get a tie," said Snyder, the dean of the conference coaches in his 25th season at his alma mater.

Saturday the race picks up again full share of the lead 60-48 Wednesday with Ohio at Western Michigan, Bowling Green at Kent State and Central Michigan at Miami in a trio of 3 p.m. contests.

Toledo plays outside the conference at new member Eastern Michigan, not yet eligible in the MAC basketball

Ohio, if it survives Western Michigan a second time this season, can grab the sole lead. The Bobcats have only two conference games remaining after the Broncos, a trip to Bowling Green and a home date with Central Michigan.

Toledo, meanwhile, still must play at Central Michigan and Kent State and at home with Miami.

Western Michigan, a 97-55 loser at Ohio earlier in the season, could cap a big week with an upset of the Bobcats. The Broncos knocked Toledo out of the night.

Bowling Green, Western Michigan and Central Michigan all must have victories Saturday to remain in the race since most teams only have two league contests to go after this week.

Meanwhile, Ohio State tries to snap a six-game losing streak at Iowa. It's the longest losing spell in Fred Taylor's 16 coaching seasons at the Big Ten school.

Ohio State's leading scorer, Bill Andreas, will be sidelined for the second straight game with an ankle sprain. Sophomore Andy Stiegemeier again will take his place.

The Buckeyes are 6-13 for all games and last in the Big Ten with a 1-8 record. Iowa has 5-13 and 2-6 marks.

The state's major independents all play Saturday. Xavier, 7-12, visits Detroit. Cincinnati, 16-5, entertains George Washington and Dayton, 14-7, faces visiting Chattanooga.

Wittenberg can wrap up the regular season Ohio Conference championship if the Tigers, 17-2 overall and 10-1 in the league, win their final OC test at Mar-If Marietta wins, Muskingum, 15-5 and 9-2, could share the crown. The Muskies would need a triumph at Baldwin-Wallace, 4-16 and 2-9.

Other OC finales send Wooster to Capital, Mount Union to Heidelberg and Ohio Wesleyan to Oberlin.

Elsewhere, Findlay is at Taylor, Rose-Hulman at Kenyon, Otterbein at Urbana, Ferris State at Ohio Northern, Hiram at Bethany, Allegheny at Case

Fight marks NBA contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The battle for first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division is a neck-and-neck affair, but Bob Lanier shouldn't take it

Lanier ended a scuffle between the Bucks' Bobby Dandridge and the Piston's John Mengelt by placing a clamp on the Milwaukee player's neck. Lanier's peace-making effort, coming with one minute left in the game, was worth a technical foul in referee Len Wirtz' eyes and the Bucks' Oscar Robertson sank the free throw to turn a two-point Milwaukee lead into a 99-96

"I guess it's a technical for trying to break up a fight," said Detroit Coach Ray Scott after the Bucks had ended the Pistons' seven-game winning streak Thursday night with a 102-99 victory. "It was a crucial call because instead of a jump ball and our being down by two points, it gave them one more point and breathing room.'

This hand brought a wide range of results at Tuesday's duplicate bridge game. Slams were played in hearts, spades, and no trump.

The ideal place to play the hand is at six no trump, which is virtually unbeatable anytime neither defender holds more than four spades.

A fine bidding sequence got Mrs. Alycia Burke and Mrs. Marlene Coil to the six no trump contract, and a break on the opening lead allowed Mrs. Coil, sitting north, to make seven no trump and capture a top board.

The bidding at their table

West North South Pass Pass Pass 6 NT Pass Pass

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

South was in no hurry to jump the bidding although as slam could be seen on the horizon. Each of her bids forced North to take another bid, and allowed room for investigation.

After the pair had decided on a no trump contract, South took control and bid the slam. Very few hands, consistant with North's bidding would not yield a good play for slam across from South's powerful hand.

The opening lead by East was somewhat of a gamble in as much as leading away from kings is not common against slams. However, the bidding indicated that this might be a weak spot for North-South. In fact, if West had held the queen of diamonds, only a diamond lead could beat the contract.

In the actual case, North let the lead ride to her queen, took the marked diamond finesse with the jack, and then led the ace and 10 of spades. West covered with the queen, and declarer took the king.

She then discarded one diamond on the jack of sp and another on the second round of clubs. The queen of hearts was cashed and the ten overtaken in the dummy, which was now good.

Had the king of diamonds taken the first trick, declarer would have had 12 top tricks.

Good bidding assured North-South of at least a tie for top, and East's imaginative lead cost East-West only one-half of a match point, while giving them their best chance to beat the contract.

It was a well-bid and well played hand . . . on both sides soon as her partner opened, of the table.

 Winners of Tuesday's duplicate game at the Elk's Lodge were: Mrs. Alycia Burke and Mrs. Marlene Coil, first with 64; Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Wright, second with 63; and Dr. and Mrs. Ken Burris, of Greenfield, third with 591/2. Average was 54.

How to Fight Dysrhythmia

Whenever I take a flight of more than four or five hours my whole system goes out of kilter. Not only am I sleepy and confused, but all my body functions are in disarray.

Can this be psychological? Mr. T. H., Fla.

Dear Mr. H.: There are indeed psychological alterations just as there are physical changes associated with the "jet lag" phenomenon. Technically this is known as "dysrhythmia." As the name implies, the timeclock mechanisms are thrown out of their normal pattern of rhythmic behavior.

One of the most remarkable functions of the organs of the body is the exactness with which our biological time clocks work. Fluctuations of body temperature, changes in the rate of the heart beat, and urinary output are more evident when the body's time clock goes off than are the subtle changes that occur in the liver, in the spleen, the brain, the intestinal tract, and the circulatory system.

The chemical and hormone balance, so carefully established by our bodies, and the normal flow of digestive juices are also disturbed from their familiar rhythm by the sudden change of time zones.

Many excellent surveys by the Armed Forces medical departments have tried to ease the disruptive effects of

All my life I've been plagued by athlete's foot. My friends who go to the same gym are never bothered.

Could this be just an allergy? Mr. B.R.T., Wash.

Dear Mr. T.:

The fungus, molds, and yeasts that cause this condition flourish on the scales of the Soviet atom plant closed by mishap

WASHINGTON (AP) - Russia's development of advanced nuclear power plants to serve Soviet industry is reported to have suffered delays, partly because of a serious mishap.

U.S. intelligence sources said a recent explosion caused Soviet engineers to shut down the nuclear reactor at a key Russian project at Shevchenko on the Caspian Sea.

The reactor, rated by U.S. experts as capable of generating about 150,000 kilowatts of electric power, was built to run a giant plant that removes salt from sea water.

The nuclear power plant, which went into operation late last year, is said to be still idle.

At the same time, U.S. sources said another major new nuclear plant in Central Russia also is delayed and may not be ready for some years. There were no indications of what caused this.

Over-all, American sources said, the Russians appeared to be progressing slower than expected in civilian nuclear energy, despite a large investment in resources and technical

The two Russian nuclear power plants reported in trouble are of a type called "liquid metal fast breeders," that are the focus of U.S. research, made urgent by the oil shortage.

U.N. soldier mine victim in Middle East

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Two Finnish soldiers with the United Nations peacekeeping force were killed and seven others were wounded by mines in an unmarked minefield in the U.N. buffer zone west of the Suez Canal, the Finnish Embassy reported today. The embassy said four of the wounded were in serious condition. It reported:

A Finnish captain was slightly injured Thursday afternoon when he detonated an antipersonnel mine in the field. A group of Finnish soldiers rushed to his rescue, and their vehicle hit an antitank mine, killing two of the men and injuring six others.

An embassy spokesman said he did not know whether the mines had been laid by the Egyptians or the Israelis. But reports of the incident in Israeli newspapers said the minefield was Egyptian.

Meanwhile, Damascus Radio Snuffy Smith reported that Syrian and Israeli tanks and artillery dueled for nearly two hours on the Golan Heights today after a clash in which four Israeli soldiers were killed.

There was no comment from the Israeli military command.

The official Syrian radio also reported the return of President Hafez Assad from Algiers and said his meeting there with three other Arab chiefs of state upheld the two principles endorsed at the Arab summit last November: complete Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory and guaranteeing the rights of the Palestinians "to their territory and

Driverless trucks wander

Two unusual accidents were reported Friday by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. Each involved a truck with no driver.

At 7:45 a.m. Friday Robert W. Stover, Jackson, parked his semi rig at the M and M Restaurant and went in for a bite to eat.

The brakes on the semi released and it rolled 26 feet across U.S. 35, 26 more feet in a ditch and then struck a fence and traveled 66 more feet in a field until it finally stopped.

Moderate damage was done to the fence owned by Lester Jordan Jr., 2099 U.S. 35 NW, and there was slight damage to the truck owned by Davis Trucking Co., Jackson.

Another semi, driven by James L. Kreiling, Eightyfour, Pa., which
